

Adam's brother, Axel, has too many neutrons inside him.

These extra neutrons give him too much energy and make him unstable. Some of this extra energy comes off Axel and is called radiation. When Axel is not where he is supposed to be, he is called radioactive contamination.

Most radiation is harmless in small amounts, but there are some forms that can make people very sick.